SoCal NOMA will kickoff the VIRTUAL 2021 Architecture Boot Camp in November. The camp will connect youth to architecture and design and encourage students to be active participants in uplifting their communities. The camp kicks off with 4 mini workshops in 2020. The full program starts in January 2021 and is a 6 months program, which will lead students through the design process and the design of a project. The half year program will host a series of studios that include Design Workshops, Community Project Tours, Architectural Field Trips and Local College Tours. The program is designed to enhance youths understanding of design, community responsibility and construction, through mentorship and design, and advance programs that prepare students to enter college architecture programs.
